Lunar Landscape

Post categories: Video Diary

Craig Frew | 13:34 UK time, Friday, 21 August 2009

We received a new video diary from Mark as he continues his cycle through Southern Utah. After leaving the bustling Salt Lake City he is now heading into the barren (and windy!) desert landscape, and looking forward to jumping on a different kind of bike in Moab.

Don't forget to visit flickr for some great photographs from Utah.

I ran into Mark yesterday about 36 miles south of Price, Utah. He was sitting beside his bike in what shade it could provide for him. I had been doing the same thing only a few miles down the road from him. There is no hiding from the sun out on Rt. 6. We spoke for a while, which was very nice to finally be able to speak to someone that is out here trying to make it across the 60 mile stretch of endless road way were one mile seems to take a eternity to travel. I would like to Thank you Mark for the bottle of water you passed on to me. I honestly don't know if I would had made it into Price without it. Have a good time in Moab and I look forward to seeing and hearing more of the journey as it progresses.

Hey Mark,

Great trip journal, We were in Moab last year shredding some great slick rock. You will enjoy the ride. Enjoyed riding with you the Yukon.

Roy and Lori ( minus the mosquito bites) ciao

As a keen long distance cyclist myself I'm enjoying Mark's adventures -especially his previous round the world trip and now this Alaska to Andes journey. However, the sound quality on this film was extremely poor - inaudible at times - due to windiness and direction of speaking. On radio it would be unfit for broadcast. Can you please bear this in mind for future clips? Thanks
